Civilian Mal-Adjustments Carry Over into Army, Randall Reports

The returning of men to the service, in the best possible physical and mental condition, is more nearly the goal of the army disciplinary program than is the "punishment" angle, Major Howard M. Randall, executive offi-cer of the Sixth Service Command Rehabilitation center at Fort Sheridan, commented in a public lecture sponsored in Antioch Township High School auditorium Monday evening by the Business and Professional

Women's club. 'These men are often not so much 'bad' as mal-adjusted," he observed in his talk, entitled "How the Army Handles Its Bad Boys." "They were mal-adjusted in civilian life-and the same continues to be true of them in army life. It generally seems to be true that a man who gets along reasonably well in civilian life will continue to get along all right in the

What Started Inflation?

Despite the efforts of President Roosevelt and New Deal propagandists to shift responsibility for a course that leads to inflation by placing the blame on Congress, the American people know what has contributed to the inflationary trend. Several of the contributing factors enumerated by the Belleville, Kans., Telescope are:

"The New Deal, which has been none too thrifty or zealous about the New Deal, which has been none too thrifty or zealous about saving the taxpayer's money, started inflation when it permitted contractors to bid up prices on government contracts and approved the 'cost-plus' policy.

'cost-plus' policy.
"The New Deal encouraged inflation when it encouraged a 40-hour week and time and one-half for overtime when there was a shortage of

The New Deal encouraged inflation when it drew government workmanpower in the country. ers from the farm, factories and private industries and paid them exorbitant wages, while it denied this same right and privilege to private

"The New Deal encouraged inflation when it permitted the willful and deliberate waste of lumber, steel and other critical materials in war contracts and used public funds to replace this profligate waste.

"The New Deal encouraged inflation when it employed at high wages 3,000,000 government clerks, stenographers, auditors, inspectors, lawyers, publicity directors, public relations officials, so-called efficiency experts and technicians to write complicated government regulations, formulas, questionnaires and letters to further confuse and perplex the tired, overworked taxpayer on the home front who is working 50 or more hours a worked taxpayer on the home front who is working 50 or more hours a week (without overtime) struggling to keep his business from bankruptcy. "So it comes with poor grace for the President or anyone else to charge Congress—the only remaining link between the people and their government—with being responsible for inflation. Every American citizen should search for the truth in this critical hour—because 'the truth will make them free.'"

"Ten years of reckless spending and pyramiding debts has resulted in the creation of inflationary forces that threaten the nation. Now Congress is told it must provide the side-office Caesars at the White House with unlimited funds for socialistic price-juggling schemes, or America will have runaway inflation... The responsibility for runaway inflation, if it occurs, lies with the administration that piled up these debts and stifled production."-Congressman Howard H. Buffett, (R.) of Nebraska.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER 1: The story of the famous 19th and 7th Bombardment Groups, of Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz and his Fortress Lieut. Col. Frank Kartz and his Fortress erew in the tremendous air campaign that saved the day for the United Nations, in the Southwest Pacific. Lieut. Kurtz, who was pilot of the old Fortress, known as "The Swoose," which escaped from Clark Field, in the Philippines, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck. He pedals to the wreck of Old 99, finds eight of his crew lying in an irregular line.

CHAPTER II: Lieut. Kurtz tells how orders to camouflage Old 99 were countermanded; instead they were to load bombs. Then he was ordered to jerk the bombs, reload with cameras and rush the camouflage. Preparations made for taking pictures of Formosa. Someone shouts, "Look at that pretty navy formation." The "navy formation" happens to be a flight of Jap planes.

Tex was to oversee the unloading of the bombs and the replacing of them with cameras in the bomb

"The Filipino waiters were always slow, but today it seemed as though we would never get our food. And while we ate I kept thinking, Suppose they do hit us-what will they look like?'

"I'd never seen a Japanese plane except those slides of them they throw on the screen in plane-recognition courses at school.

"I left the mess hall and ran into Tex, looking for me. He had everything under control with Old 99, the crew was standing by, and were there any more orders?

"I told him not yet, I was going over to the operations tent and would be back with them in a very few minutes. Good old Tex, standing there, apparently casual and yet really alert as a fox terrier, getting every word I said. A fine-looking kid, twenty-two years old, he was for me those extra eyes, ears, and hands that every co-pilot should be.

"I was worrying about what would happen if while I was in that operations tent, scout planes might report a Jap bomber formation headed down toward us from Formosa. I trusted our fighter pilots at Iba, but ! -you never could tell-a few bombers might slip through to Clark.

Boy Scout stuff, but this war has really begun. If we get word in Operations that we're about to be hit off the field from where she is, without the usual runway procedure. So watch for me to come pedaling toward you on my bike from operations tent. If I drop my arm as you which made around eight hundred see me come over the top of the runmotors started by the time I get there."

"'Okay, Frank,' he said quietly. there's not room' for much of that in the Air Force. Then he assured me that the men had all been sent to chow, the engines warmed and on back to Old 99.

"We all smiled at this. We didn't know that he, from Manila, could see around the little hill over in the direction of Iba Field, and that these plumes of smoke were from burning P-40's there. The Japanese were already tearing our American fighter force to pieces. it would be five or ten seconds more before they came to their bombrelease line, and I ought to see the glint of their bombs turning over as they came out of their bomb bays-they seem almost to pause under the plane before they start down-several seconds surely before I saw that glint, and then would be time to jump for the ditch. Meanwhile I wanted to see what kind of pattern this formation planned to the bangs there was that rising lay down over this field, just as, many times before-back in the dry bed of Muroc Lake in California, our practice bombing range in the Mojave Desert-I'd watched a formation of our own to see how good they were.

CHAPTER III

"I hadn't long to wait, because the nose of that leading V had passed the bomb-release line, and now came the first, unmistakable whistle-just as we'd heard it thousands of times over Muroc-and then the dull cr-rrump! The first bomb of their pattern had hit way up the field, three thousand yards away. I didn't know then it had hit the mess hall I had just left, and killed Bill Cocke, our group engineering officer.

"But now was the time to run for our lives, because here came more whistles, and the nose of the formation was over us now, like a huge cloud with giant hailstones falling from it.

was a man already in it. We could think of nothing then except this earthquake roar and grinding and ing down the field. You see there were about seventy planes in that formation, and each plane was to drop a train of about twelve bombs, bombs that were to cover that recway crest, that means I want the tangular pattern in about the time it's taking me to say a few of these sentences. Meanwhile we were bracing ourselves-getting our arms No saluting or heel - snapping - and legs adjusted, worming as low as we could in that shallow holefor what we knew was coming. I pulled my tin hat down to cover the side of my face and cheek against checked. Now he turned, and went | bomb fragments. Now it began. I was afraid to take my tin was even at this instant clicking the hat from my face for another halfreceiver, trying to get through to minute, because maybe another V might be above us at its bombrelease line, and other trains might start thundering down.

"But the quiet continued and now we raised up in our trench. The black cloud of bombers was moving bly just now closing their bomb-bay doors, wheeling in the distance to head back for home. It was very still except for a rising crackle of fire-the smoke from our burning planes was just starting, the climbing columns had not yet blossomed into thick black plumes.

"But over this crackle we could hear another hum. Then we saw it, as we peered east over the edge of next-General Brereton still trying the field: a string of fighters-they must be our P-40's! We didn't know. that all but a few of our P-40's had been bombed and shot down and said, in an awe-struck, admiring their field ruined before the bombers. came to us.

"So we stood there brushing the dirt from our clothes (one bomb had hit only fifteen feet away from me) drone, I think it froze all of us. and watched this formation approach. They were coming around beautiful Mount Arayat in a long string like geese flying north in the fall, and at only a little higher altitude-say 2,000 or 3,000 feet.

They, weren't P-40's, as we now could see, but Nakaiimasand some Zeros-coming in from the direction of Corregidor, an attack string, each Jap leaning out as he circled to pick out which Fortress on the ground he would attack

"As they circled we could hear our ammunition dump going up-it was like Fourth of July as the bombs burst in the heat-and in between crackle.

"A three-quarter circle they made. like cracking a blacksnake whip over our already stricken airfield, and then they began to peel off to clean up with strafing what few Fortresses their bombers had missed.

"We had started coming out of our foxholes, but now we ran back-we were in the rat stage now, the whole idea being to get the hell out of the target area, because there was nothing we could do. We were all running and looking over our shoulders to be sure there wasn't a Nakajima coming straight with spitting guns at the small of our backs.

"Ahead of me I could see men disappearing into a ditch-some diving head-foremost into it. (Bob Meyer almost broke his neck.) I tumbled in, and when I picked myself up I saw a soldier deliberately, slowly walking up to it, but just as he stood at the lip he seemed to cullapse and came tumbling down. I thought the earth had caved in under his feet. Jap fighters. Near our ditch is a Fortress snugly in a revetment, which is a curved sandbag wall fitting spugly around the wings and motors of a plane and over which is thrown camouflaged netting to conceal it from high-altitude bombers, splitting roar of his motors as he but which of course is no protection against strafing, as it isn't concealed from a low-altitude plane.

"There is a sudden hammering of guns, and we see one of the Nakajimas has picked out this particular Fortress as his prey.

"Again and again the Jap comes in-maling his approach (it was out of his turn at about 150 feetbut his flight path brings him down as low as fifteen feet above the Fortress' wings. There is a routine about it. As he straightens out from his turn and comes at the big motionless bomber, first his small .25caliber wing guns open up with a tracers. Then, when these white

we crouch in the bottom. Each time we glimpse the pilot as he rolls in for the attack. He wears a yellow scarf, but for the rest, in goggles of us. I don't think he notices us he is too intent on the Fortress It is only that we are right in his line of fire, and each time as he starts to pull up, his guns spray our trench was cleared. lip before he has time to take his thumb off the button. "But suppose he does see us? Some of the men had been londing bombs when the attack came and i have their shirts off-their white backs are wonderful targets. So now we start to organize ourselves in our rat trap, pounding away with orders. If he does spot us, all he's got to do is come right down that ditch with his guns open.

"So we organize with three lookouts-Lee Coats takes the southeast corner, Bob Meyer the northwest. and I the southwest. Each of us is a pilot who can put himself in the place of those Japs. We know more or less what each maneuver means -whether it will be just a pass or a real attack. So we tell the rest of them to take it easy, keep well we shout the orders.

"What antiaircraft we have is thumping away now, but it isn't dois so placed that the black smoke billowing up from the burning Forthe ground gunners, blanketing their field of fire. In the second place, it was never designed-to operate at as close a range as three hundred yards.

"So in our ditch we start a little war of our own-forty of us versus the Imperial Japanese Air Force; or rather those of the forty who have .45's, which is the pilots and the bombardiers. Every time that Jap strafer comes over, we bang away at him-I can't say we do any damage, and all we had to show for it afterward was a damn dirty pistol to clean, but it gives us some satisfaction.

"Mearwhile from all over the field you can hear two sound sequencesfirst the high rattle of the Jap .25caliber wing guns as the tracers feel for the target, then the slower pounding of the cannon as they drive the main punch home-that I've described before. The other sequence was more heartbreaking. You'd hear a rising, hissing p-p-pf-f-f-o-O-FFF! which means a tracer has gone sizzling into the gas tan- of one of our dear old Fortresses- followed quickly by a great roar (everything letting loose at once), "hich means that the burning gasoline has exploded her bombs.

"Meanwhile we are watching the now really getting down to business, In a very short while once the skin coming in lower and closer each is broken the apple will deteriorate time. As we spot him coming tear- with soft rot. A lifting and twisting in for the attack we yell out our ing motion will easily remove any orders and grovel on our faces as apple which is ripe. his wing guns rattle and his cannon thump, followed by the earswishes past over our heads-we'l popping futilely at the racing shadow with our .45's.

He chandelle as he usually did, but kept rattle, filling the air with a skein of on going and-'Look!' somebody said. 'A puff of smoke!' Sure enough it was-only maybe he was only clearing his engine-but three seconds later it was a definite black trail behind him.

"We held our breath as he wobbled and wavered off like a wounded bird, and when lie rolled over on one wing down behind the horizon, never to rise again, we let out a cheer that shook more dirt down the walls of our ditch. Because up to then it had been all their Saturday.

"This seemed to signal the end of and Zeros rose from the field like crows from a well-picked carcass and, falling into formation, disappeared around Mount Arayat in the direction of their carrier, which lay somewhere out of sight off Luzon down under the horizon. "Now we climbed out of the ditch and started back toward Operations to report. But first we had to walk around the wreckage of the poor old Fortress. We walked wide not only because of the shimmering heat, but because it was a shameful thing we could hardly bear to watch, which no one will understand who doesn't love those big, beautiful B-17's as we did. There she was in her death agony-the plates had weltered quickly, leaving only her naked skeleton shimmering in the heat, and licked by oily flame. It made you sick and you wanted to look the other way.

"The rest of the field was littered with charred skeletons of planes. You'll remember the 19th Bombardment Group had comprised thirtyfive proud Flying Fortresses. A dozen of them had been down at Del target, we hear him open up with | Monte Field in the southern island of Mindanao and so escaped this attack. History's Biggest Naval Bombardment Prelude to Major Action on Marshalls; Russians Surge Onward Toward Baltic; Civilian Fat, Oil Allotments Decreased

Pacific strongholds menacing Allied supply lines to the Philippines. In attacking the Marshalls after the greatest naval bombardment in U. S. history, American troops were put ashore on one of the most important of the islets making up the group. From here, the doughboys trained their guns on the biggest air base and the best submarine and seaplane station in the whole island cluster. With the memory of strong Jap fortifications of Tarawa in the Gilberts still in mind, the U.S. spared none of the firepower of its navy or air force to smash at enemy installations in the Marshalls before troops clambered ashore. But despite the terrific battering, Jap units took up the fight when doughboys landed, again making it no picnic.

TAXES:

Lawmakers Agree

Falling far short of the administration's request for 1012 billion dollars in new taxes, a conference committee of senators and congressmen agreed on raising 2 billion 300 million, to bring 1944 revenue to about 44 billion dollars.

More than a billion dollars of the new taxes would be collected on higher levies for goods and services, new rates amounting to 1 cent for every 5 cents admission charge, $9 per gallon of 100 proof liquor, $8 per barrel of beer, 20 per cent on furs, jewelry and luggage, 15 per cent on transportation, and increased rates on club dues, bowling alleys and pool tables. The tax on cosmetics would be raised to 22

Air mail rates would be raised to 8 cents, 3 cent stamps would be required on local mail deliveries, and charges would be increased on C.O.D., registered and insured mail, and on money orders.

By abolishing the earned income credit and deductions for payment of federal excise taxes, the lawmakers figured on raising 600 million in additional income taxes. Another 500 million would be raised by increasing the excess profits tax from 90 to 95 per cent.

Employing upwards of 250,000 men. the Reds hammered big dents in the German lines, forcing enemy retreats with the threat of encirclement from the rear.

Having given ground before German counterattacks 80 miles from the Rumanian border, the Reds struck back both to the east and west of this region, chewing into enemy lines behind intense artillery and

EUROPE:

Nutcracker Closing

The big Allied nuteracker in southern Italy slowly closed on embattled and British bombers hammered away at the enemy's defense installations and supply centers in northwestern Europe.

FOOD SUPPLY: World Prospects

With food production here at its peak and overseas demands increas-improvement in the shipping situation, Wickard said, but he was less optimistic of Russia, reporting that with the Germans occupying its rich agricultural regions earlier in 1943 the country now faced actual starvation.

Although Germany is better off than it was during World War I, conditions have further deteriorated throughout the rest of Europe, Wickard said. Japan's control over East Asia gives her a rich source of foodstuffs, but their availability to the homeland is restricted by the enemy's shipping facilities, Wickard pointed out.

Less Fats, Oils

Civilian allotments of fats and oils in 1944 will average less than last year, the War Food administration under Marvin Jones

announced. Approximately 21 per cent of the nation's supply will be lies, it was reported, with Russia and Great Britain receiving 16.3 per cent of the total.

Under the allotments, each U.S. civilian will get about 43.9 pounds of butter, lard, shortenings and other oils and margarine, compared with 46.5 pounds last year, and 48.8 pounds in 1942.

Allotments for cooking oils and vegetable oil shortenings will average 14.3 pounds per person as compared with 16.4 pounds in 1943, and 13.9 pounds of lard as against 14.3

ALL TOGETHER!

NOTWITHSTANDING the remarkable transportation record set up by American Railroads in 1943, when ton miles increased from 638 billions in 1942 to 730 billions, The SOO LINE, with other carriers, is now aiming at a still greater performance for 1944.

From the standpoint of war transportation, the months ahead are expected to present an extremely critical period and to meet that situation, we will redouble our efforts to keep cars rolling. To accomplish that purpose we will again require the cooperation of shippers and the receivers of freight by-

- 1. Limiting orders for cars to those actually required and which can be loaded promptly.
- 2. Loading cars to full load limit or cubic capacity.
- 3. Loading and billing cars on day placed or within 24 hours after placement.
- 4. Unloading immediately and notifying the railroad as soon as cars are unloaded.
- 5. Cleaning cars thoroughly and promptly so that they may be immediately used for the next load, thereby avoiding the delay involved in handling the car to the "rip-track" for cleaning.

With such cooperation, we'll be able to accomplish our 1944 goal-an improvement of 10% in overall freight-car performances.

YOU KNOW that this year may bring great victories—if every American, civilian as well as soldier, stands loyally at his or her post. And, whatever else your duties may call for, there is one job that concerns every citizen—that concerns you: That is to help make 1944 one of the decisive years of human history. So make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to help make the 4th War Loan Drive the success it must be if we are to realize our great objectives this year.

Ask yourself honestly—how much of a sacrifice is it to give up some luxury just temporarily in order to buy the best investments in the world? When you've answered that question, buy at least one extra $100 Bond now—at your office or plant, if possible. And if you've already bought, buy again this month—and keep 'em!
